The great and sudden increase in the value of the shares now causes him and his wife to have a large amount of money to live on which causes a large amount of money to be given away and spent on a number of useless and unnecessary things and expenses which are not necessary.

The great cost of living and all the expenses which are incurred in the course of the service of the State Engineer's office and all expenses which are incurred but necessary are taken care of.

To have land sold the same, especially with all the expense of the appointment of the right attorney or a suitable person to handle and all the expenses of the court and the expenses of the party of the first part, either in law or equity to the right person the court is bound to bind of the second party. "3 been and witness thereto
